Resistant Relationships: the no-problem, no-pressure solution.

We've all seen or experienced it: a toddler throwing a fit over what to wear; a young child lashing out at their siblings for no reason; or a tween responding to a simple request with an angry outburst. Sometimes it's an employee or team member who challenges you. Sometimes it's your spouse, or partner! It happens. And here's what you need to know:

When resistant behavior becomes the norm and you're exhausted from issuing one unsuccessful consequence after another, it's time to change the conversation.

In this LLN you will discover root causes of many behavior issues and why your gut reaction and traditional correction tactics seldom work. Jaci will introduce you to a new, tried-and-true perspective on parenting that works in almost any relationship. You'll explore empathy – the no-pressure, no-problem key to changing the way you approach resistance.

This LLN will inform, inspire and leave you feeling empowered to handle the tough relationships in your life.

JACI FINNEMAN
Parent Coach

Jaci Finneman is passionate about helping families find happiness in their day-to-day routine. She began her career as a para-professional serving the needs of children with developmental disabilities. She went on to join a local non-profit agency that supported children with physical and emotional needs. Jaci was an In-Home Family Counselor and Program Coordinator for 20 years at Greater Minnesota Family Services. In her role she led a value-driven team and supported the launch of multiple new programs. She has spent over 30,000 hours coaching parents and is highly sought after to assist children with Reactive Attachment Disorder (RAD). In 2013 she founded Hello World, LLC – a company dedicated to awakening attachment and restoring broken families.

Jaci enjoys all things baseball and hockey - and the outdoors. She and her husband Eric live in St. Augusta with their 12-year-old son Andrew.
